Sandlin chosen as new council president

Second-term Councilor Anthony Russo selected as vice president

By Quinn Suomala
 Staff Writer

Rosemary Sandlin

AGAWAM – City Councilors Rosemary Sandlin and Anthony Russo were chosen to be City Council President and Vice President respectively.

Sandlin and Former Vice President Dino Mercadante were both nominated for the position.

Anthony Russo

Sandlin won the initial vote 6-5.

Following the vote Mercadante made a motion to move the vote to general consensus, making the official vote then 11-0 for Sandlin.

“I just want to say thank you for my fellow councilor’s confidence in me,” Sandlin said. “I will try to earn that over the course of the next year.”

Sandlin has been the chair of many committees throughout her time as a city councilor, and she feels this AGAWAM – Mayor Christopher Johnson was sworn into office along with members of the city council and the school committee in a ceremony on Jan. 2.

Johnson took the time after his swearing-in to thank everyone who had helped him to get to where he is today. He focused especially on his wife and all that she has done for him.

“I wanted to extend special thanks to my wife,” Johnson said. “Without her, I’m not here.”

Johnson also gave his hopes for what the next few years of government will look like. He wants to ensure the cooperation and collaborative environment cultivated by Former Mayor William Sapelli stays.

“I hope that we can all work together, the same way that we worked together with my predecessor,” Johnson said. “I know I have incredibly large shoes to fill, Bill did a fantastic job as mayor, I hope to do half as good a job as he did.”

He also reminded all present that his door is always open for people to come and see him, whether they have questions or just want to say hello.

“I want to work together to make Agawam the best place in the Pioneer valley to live, work

DPW tackles first major snowstorm of the winter season

There is plenty of room for more snow plow contractors

By Quinn Suomala
 Staff Writer

AGAWAM – Agawam and surrounding areas were hit by a winter storm on Jan. 7, giving Agawam nearly a foot of snow.

During this storm, plowing crews were at work for more than 24 hours to treat and clean the roads, according to Department of Public Works Superintendent Mario Mazza.

“I think it was a full 24 hours if not more fighting that storm,” Mazza said.

Mazza felt that overall crews did well in staying on top of the storm.

“I think we did great,” he said. While he acknowledges that some areas did still have some snow on the roads as of the morning of Jan. 8, the majority of the roads were completely clean.

other cities and towns that I’ve been through,” Mazza said. “So I think we’re as good or better than them.”

This was the first large snow storm of the year, and one of the largest in recent years.

“I usually like to start the season off with a three or four inch storm,” Mazza said. “There’s always bugs to work out in a storm, no matter the size, but obviously the bigger the storm the more complicated it gets.”

Following the storm, Mazza and the workers will meet in order to discuss the successes and challenges of the storm.

They will go over any complaints or issues brought up by residents as well as any difficulties workers encountered while plowing.

Oftentimes the “bugs” include piling snow in places that are inconvenient for residents, roads not being cleared off to people’s liking or issues with on street parking.

Mazza took the time to thank the police department for their support during this storm in helping with any issues with on street parking or the parking ban.

“[The police] are great, anytime that we found an issue we called them and they assisted with it,” Mazza said.

Overall, the goal of this meeting is to figure out how to fix any issues encountered during the storm and to prepare for the next one.

“It’s about being proactive for the next storm and reaching out to the root supervisors and those plow operators...and making them aware of things that need to be changed for the next storm,” Mazza said.

Mazza is still looking out for more plow contractors. While he felt the crew he has currently did well with the storm, they could always use more support.

“The more you have, the lighter the load,” he said. “It would have been better to have a few more, it would ease some of the time that we ended up having to work. In-

Materials delay keeps culvert area closed

By Quinn Suomala
Staff Writer

AGAWAM – The North Street Culvert Project is delayed by six weeks due to difficulties with material delivery.

A key material for the project, foamed glass, has been undeliverable due to the recent weather as well as manufacturing difficulties.

Foamed glass is a lightweight aggregate material that acts as an insulation and protection in construction.

“The best way I can describe it is when you get packages and there are foam peanuts inside of it,” Department of Public Works Superintendent Mario Mazza said. “They filled up all that space around the package to protect it. It’s the construction version of that.”

This material is necessary to move forward with the project, and it is only manufactured in a few places on the east coast including Vermont, Pennsylvania and Canada.

Northern Construction, the company hired for this project, contracted with the plant in Vermont as it was the closest and cheapest option.

Unfortunately, this plant ran into manufacturing issues, which pushed back the material delivery.

The recent snow storm also created additional difficulties with clearing around the project and with delivery.

“They wound up being delayed by about four weeks with that material, and then the holidays hit and now a snow storm,” Mazza said. “So all of these things pushed the project into a six week delay range.”

Due to this delay, Mazza said they explored potentially getting the material out of the other plants in Pennsylvania and Canada, but neither option would improve the delay.

“We explored getting it out of Pennsylvania and Canada but neither of them could get it to us any quicker and it would cost us more money in transportation,” Mazza said.

The original timeline for this project was for it to be completed by the week before the week of Christmas.

Now Mazza anticipates that they will receive deliveries of the foamed glass starting this week and, if weather is agreeable, the project will be completed in the middle of February.

Should everything remain on schedule Mazza expects the construction team will start placing material on the culvert again on Jan. 11 or 12, thus allowing construction work to move forward.

However, this stage of completion does not include paving the road. While North Street will reopen, Mazza believes that the road will be gravel until the spring, when paving plants open once more.

Once spring comes, the road will have to close once more for paving.

“It may open but have to close again for a week or day by day as we’re doing the paving,” Mazza said.

The North Street Culvert project was focused on replacing the culvert, constructing an additional culvert, installing storm-water structures and improving the road and surface conditions of the area.

This project was initially started as the culvert was in danger of collapsing and the DPW wanted to address the issue before it worsened.

“If it were to collapse the overhead road would no longer be usable, and North Street is a pretty heavily traveled road,” Mazza had said in a previous interview. “The second part is that the water that passes through it would become damned, so it would back up and probably back up into other people’s properties.”

Thankfully, the DPW was able to address the project in time and all work should be complete in the spring.

Smith House paranormal findings to be revealed

AGAWAM – It was an evening last October when members of Agawam Paranormal began arriving at a Feeding Hills farmhouse, soon to be joined by news anchor Chris Pisano and a film crew from Western Mass News.

Case after case of equipment was unloaded, and cameras and sensors set up in every room of the Agawam Historical Association’s 267-year-old Thomas Smith House. Working in total darkness, team members took readings and recorded their surroundings for the next several hours. It wasn’t until after 1 a.m. that Agawam Paranormal founder and lead investigator Rob Goff Sr. was satisfied all necessary information had been collected and the ok was given for everything to be packed up and the Smith House locked up for the night.

A brief segment of the investigation appeared on Western Mass News on Oct. 30, 2023, but a full assessment of data collected that night has not yet been made public.

That will change on Thursday, Jan. 18 at 6:30 p.m. at the Captain Charles Leonard House, 663 Main St., when the Agawam Historical Association invites the public to attend its first meeting of the new year. Agawam Paranormal will present for the first time the full results of their investigation. Equipment used in the investigation will be displayed and their processes detailed. Findings will be explained and followed by a Q&A session. A raffle will also be held for a chance for two to accompany Agawam Paranormal on a future investigation at the Smith House.

The Thomas Smith House, built c. 1757, remains in largely original condition, without central heat or plumbing. No one has spent the night at the house in decades; the house has not been lived in since the 1960s. The property was listed in the National Register of Historic Places in 2005 and is a rare, unrestored example of 18th century architecture. The garage was built specifically for automobiles and connects the property’s agricultural origins to the Agawam’s suburban present.

An interactive virtual tour of the Thomas Smith House, created by photographer Fred Gore, can be found at <https://mls.kuu.la/share/collection/7Jq2q?fs=1&vr=1&initload=0&thumbs=1>, and offers basement to attic access.

Town of Agawam shares winter reminders

AGAWAM – The Town of Agawam would like to share some important winter maintenance information, including the placement of trash carts, keeping sidewalks clear, avoiding frozen pipes and keeping fire hydrants clear during the winter months.

In the event of a snow storm, residents are asked to wait until 7 a.m. of their scheduled collection day to roll carts to the tree belt. Residents are asked to remove carts from the tree belts as soon as possible. Please do not leave carts on the tree belt overnight during a snow storm.

The town is not responsible for any damage to carts left out during a snow event where services have been cancelled.

Any change in service due to a snow event will be announced on the town's news page of the web site, as well as through the town's "Code Red" community notification call. To join Code Red, visit the main page of the town website at www.agawam.ma.us stead of about 24 hours it maybe could have been 18.”

Having to work on the roads for about 24 hours straight is hard on the plowers, so Mazza would appreciate further support in the future.

If someone is interested in signing up to plow, they can reach out to the procurement office at town hall in order to receive the needed paperwork.

“We are still open to more contractors if there are folks out there that are late to sign up or interested in doing it,” he said.

As far as residents in the town, Mazza appreciates their patience and understanding while the crew is working on the roads. He asks that they do the same in future storms.

“I ask folks to be patient with us in future storms,” he said. “Give the plows the space they need to do their work and if they can follow the parking ban that’s greatly appreciated and helps out.”

Will my friend's fiancée be entitled to a survivor benefit?

Dear Rusty

I have a very good friend who has cancer and will begin chemotherapy this week. He is 71 years old and is currently receiving Social Security benefits. He has been living with his fiancée for a little more than 2 years, but they have been a couple for about 15 years and will be married in the next few weeks. She is 60 years old.

I am naturally concerned about his and her future so my questions are:

What, if anything, should he and his wife do to ensure that she gets his Social Security benefits?

What benefits will she be entitled to and how soon will she be able to begin receiving them after his death?

Signed: A Friend with Questions

Dear Friend

You are kind to be concerned about your friend and his fiancée. Here's what you need to know:

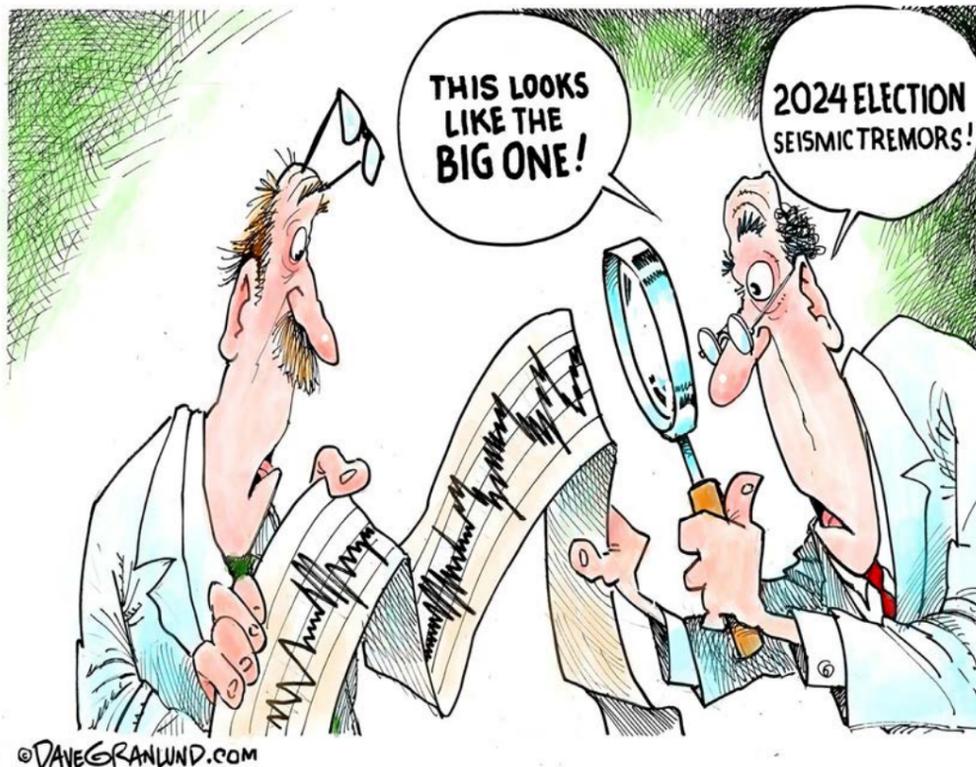

Social Security goes by state rules when it comes to what is often referred to as "common law marriage." That means that whether your friend's fiancée will receive any benefits as a surviving spouse in a "common law" relationship depends on whether they live in a state, which recognizes common law marriage.

Most states do not, but state laws have changed over the years and many states which once recognized such unions as "marriage" no longer do. Although they may have "been a couple" for 15 years, if your friend and his fiancée have been living together for only two it is likely only the last two years will count for Social Security benefit purposes. So, whether your friend's fiancée will get anything when your friend dies depends on where they live, unless they get married, in which case the rules are different.

In order for a married widow(er) to receive surviving spouse benefits, the couple must have been married for at least nine months. If they marry and your friend lives longer than nine months thereafter, then his wife will be entitled to a surviving spouse benefit from her husband. The amount of his wife's benefit will be based upon the amount your friend is receiving at his death, adjusted for her age when she claims her surviving spouse benefit.

A surviving spouse can claim benefits from the deceased as early as age 60, but those benefits will be reduced for claiming before full retirement age (FRA). Taken at age 60, the wife's benefit would be 71.5% of your friend's SS benefit at his death. The wife need not claim the survivor benefit immediately; she could opt to delay claiming in order to get a higher percentage of the husband's amount. Survivor benefits reach maximum, 100% of the deceased's benefit amount, at the recipient's FRA.

So, if your friend and his fiancée now live in a state which currently recognizes common law marriage (Colorado, Iowa, Kansas, Montana, New Hampshire, South Carolina, Texas, Utah, Rhode Island or in the District of Columbia), then your friend's partner will be considered his "wife" and entitled to survivor benefits as normal (the fiancée would need to prove they cohabitate in a marriage-like relationship to claim benefits).

New questions for the New Year!

Jim, who gardens in Bridgewater, sent this question in to the Garden Lady.

"I liked your article on experimenting with holly seeds. I do some of my own propagating with trees and perennials, so the holly seeds thing was good. My question concerns being dioecious and at what point can one determine male or female? Is there some way to determine sex at an early stage or must I grow a dozen plants for years before I can wean out the males and keep the females? I have read that a single male will successfully pollinate all the females within a half mile radius so finding the females is my goal at the earliest possible stage of growth."

Sadly, the only way to figure out whether you have a male or female holly is by examining the flowers, so yes, that will require growing them on for some time; my research indicates about four to seven years.

The male flowers will have four petals and four stamens where you will see the pollen at the end. Female flowers look very similar except there is a green "bump" in the center of the petals - the ovary, where the berries will form from.

Garden centers usually propagate vegetatively from either male or female plants, so they are not playing the waiting game. Starting hollies from seed is still a fun experiment, time consuming nonetheless.

Dawn was worried that her amaryllis plant was dead. "My amaryllis was originally a Christmas gift. I've enjoyed it for a few years now, but its leaves yellowed, then they withered and died. I'm worried that I killed it!"

As soon as I heard from Dawn, my thoughts went to my own amaryllis, still in my bedroom window despite the fact that its leaves are brown and have fallen around the outside of its pot. I haven't watered it since it started to "decline."

It has sat there in this sorry state for a few weeks now. Never fear, it's likely our bulbs have gone dormant.

This timing is a little off if you think about all of those boxed sets of amaryllis bulbs sitting on store shelves just in time for Christmas giving and planting. Bulb companies can "time" growth stages a little more reliably than we can.

After a month or two of dormancy watering can resume and with good fortune, blooms should reappear in 6-8 weeks. Some experts recommend putting the dormant bulbs in a cool, dark room to rest.

I often move dormant pots of bulbs to my mudroom where temperatures are in the 50s this time of year and when I see green tips on the bulb I bring it back into the living area of my house. Usually regrowth comes, but a flower sometimes doesn't.

In this case, the bulb is likely depleted of nutrients and without enough reserves left for rebloom. I would recommend watering with an all-purpose plant fertilizer during active growth.

Seed production also diminishes the plant's reserves, so be sure to deadhead the individual flowers as they go by, leaving the stem intact until it yellows. Hopefully these tips will give your amaryllis a few more good years of flowering.

Habitat breaks the mold: Offers affordable homeownership

By Brandice J. O'Brien

SPRINGFIELD – Yes, Greater Springfield Habitat for Humanity builds houses. But, there's so much more to the nonprofit organization. Simply put, Greater Springfield Habitat offers the limited-income population of Hampden County an opportunity to create better lives and generational wealth for their families. GSHFH operates using a three-pronged approach as a construction company, social service agency, and mortgage provider. In fact, Greater Springfield Habitat's construction projects are built despite the rise of inflation, financial challenges, and changes in the local housing market.

GSHFH primarily constructs three- and four-bedroom single-family homes that measure approximately 1,500 square feet. GSHFH helps families purchase homes that they construct in partnership with the organization, by requiring sweat equity contribution in lieu of down payment from partner families and providing low-to-zero-interest mortgages and subsidies to purchase homes at below market rate. Greater Springfield Habitat mortgages are based on the family's income and set to not exceed 43% of their total household debt when combined with all financial obligations.

"GSHFH works with families that earn 45% to 60% of the area median income level. For a family of four, that's a household income of $35,000 to $59,000 per year," said Aimee Giroux, GSHFH executive director. "Traditional first-time home buyer programs require a minimum income of 80% or $80,000 AMI and the family must have 3% to 10% down payment to qualify."

By comparison, Aimee said, imagine a family of four earning $50,000 (50% AMI) is trying to secure a $150,000 mortgage. They have a current debt of $700 per month for a student loan, credit card and car loan. By partnering with GSHFH, they can afford up to a 2.5% interest loan. Their maximum payment with escrow would be $993 per month with an overall debt to income of 40%. At the current 6.5% interest rate, their payment would be $1,348 per month, and their debt to income would be 53%, which would make them ineligible for traditional funding.

Juan Gonzalez said just before he and his wife showed up to the January 2023 closing of his new home in Holyoke, he ran the numbers one last time to make sure the home was within their financial means. Looking over the math, he was worried. Unnecessarily so. Juan forgot the loan was interest-free. When he heard that he exhaled a big breath and said, "Disregard my math. Thank you, Lord. This home is more affordable."

"Habitat made the process easy and with a no-interest loan in this economy, we couldn't have asked for anything better," said Karina Dise, Habitat homeowner in Monson, who with her husband, purchased their home in November 2007. "We are blessed to own a house and have land that goes with it. We can enjoy the outside when the weather is nice and we don't have to hear our noisy neighbors who used to live right next door to us. My husband likes to grill outside too, so that's definitely a plus."

housing. Period. Habitat aims to close the racial wealth disparities by providing subsidies and affordable mortgages to help families break the cycle.

"We had debt, we cleaned it up and went to the bank to see if we qualified for a mortgage. We were told we didn't have enough money," said Lori Holt, who with her husband purchased a Springfield Habitat home in May 2014. "Our daughter told us about Habitat and encouraged us to apply. I didn't think we had a chance."

Eventually, Lori and her husband applied and were accepted. "It was such a blessing for us," Lori said. The couple has five children, four of whom are now adults. "We pay for mortgage what a lot of people pay for rent. Habitat helped our family a lot."

Kim Rivera, who experienced homelessness, on and off since her 18th birthday before owning a Habitat home, said she appreciates what Habitat has done for her. Kim purchased her home in December 2009.

"Habitat gave people like me the ability to get the American dream. I have stability. My children and grandchildren have a safe haven," Kim said. "I'm never selling this house. I'm going to keep it in the family. I want other generations to know they won't be homeless. I have three kids, and they've all seen the benefits of having a home."

Studies have shown children of limited-income homeowners are 11% more likely to graduate from high school and are 4.5% more likely to complete post-secondary education than children of low-income renters, Aimee said.

Since its inception in 1987, GSHFH has constructed 74 homes throughout Hampden County.

Habitat chooses partner families based on need, their willingness to partner with us, and their ability to repay a mortgage for the purchase of their home. In many instances, a family's current living situation is less than ideal with issues of rodents, limited electricity, no heat, and/or the apartment is in a dangerous location. For many families, gunfire, drugs and vandalism are frequent. Families who face these realities often have challenges breaking the cycle for their children.

To ensure selected families understand the "hand up" versus a "hand out" ideology, prospective and have tools to manage the responsibility of homeownership, Habitat partner families must also attend first-time homebuyer education, financial literacy classes, good neighbor and home maintenance classes.

To keep the mission moving forward, GSHFH relies on donations. Most funding comes from individual donations, local businesses, and grants.

If they do not live in one of those states, but they get married and the marriage lasts for at least 9 months, then the wife will be entitled to normal benefits as a surviving spouse as described above.

But if the couple do not live in one of the above states which recognize "common law" relationships or if their soon-to-occur marriage doesn't last at least 9 months or if they do not get married, I'm afraid your friend's partner will not be entitled to any survivor benefits from your friend.

Friends of APL looking for new members

AGAWAM – The Friends of the Agawam Public Library has been in existence for over 20 years. They are a dedicated group of local citizens who support the library with both time and money. The Friends hold monthly meetings to discuss ways they can best help with the library's mission.

Over the years the Friends have supplied the library with numerous items that were not included in the town's budget, such as; a slide projector, a people counter, a Laser HP color printer, a wireless Lavalier microphone system, a portable Public Address system, an ongoing lease for a color photocopier, furniture for the children's room, protective sleeves for library cards, a DVD player and computers and software for the Children's Room.

The Friends help the library in various other ways too. Some ways are by funding library events throughout the year, such as the Elementary Summer School Reading Challenge (where cash prizes are awarded to Agawam's 4 grade schools), English as a Second Language classes and a number of museum passes. They raise the money for funding by holding an annual Holiday Basket Raffle, presenting an annual Juried Photography show, selling used books, offering canvas tote bags and mugs with the Friends logo created by Agawam's own David Cecchi, and volunteering in various library-supported activities.

The Friends welcome all who want to bring attention to the library's vital role in our town by becoming a member, volunteering at activities, or simply offering support through book and monetary contributions. The Friends are always grateful for any volunteer help with library projects. If community members are interested in becoming a Friends member, you can find the application on our website <https://www.agawamlibrary.org/about-2/friends/>, print it out and mail it in or look for the Friends form in the Friends kiosk in the library and pay in person.

And, to make things even more exciting, if you are interested in becoming a Friend and pay your Friends membership by Jan. 1, 2024, you will be entered in a drawing on Jan. 4 (at the Friends January meeting), to win a $50 Amazon gift card.

The time is now for the community to join The Friends of Agawam Public Library, it is loads of fun and extremely satisfying.

Be aware of phony bank text messages

One of scammers' favorite tactics is impersonating a person or organization you know and trust. That's the premise of this new text message scam, which has been popping up in recent BBB Scam Tracker reports. This time, con artists are impersonating your bank.

You receive a text message that looks like a fraud alert from your bank. It claims there is some unusual activity in your account. It may read: "Bank Fraud Alert - Did you approve a transaction for $1,000? Reply YES or NO." If you reply to the text, the scammer now knows they have an active number - and a person to scam.

The scam doesn't end there. The scammer will call you to follow up, and the number will appear in the caller ID as coming from your bank. When you answer, the caller claims to be a bank representative who can help stop the fraudulent charges. To do so, you need to send money to yourself using Zelle or another digital wallet app. The caller walks you through the process of connecting the app to your bank account. Then, they ask you to verify the connection by sharing the code your bank sent.

Don't do it! If you give the scammer your verification code, the scammer can set up an account with your phone number and email - but their bank account information. If that happens, when you send money to "yourself," you're actually sending money to the scammer. Disputing the charges will be difficult because the scammer has tricked you into approving the transaction. Sending money through a digital wallet app is like using cash, making it very hard to get your money back.

One consumer reported this experience to BBB Scam Tracker: "I received two texts stating it was the Wells Fargo Fraud Department wanting to know if I had made a Zelle transfer... I responded no and immediately got another text stating, 'Thank you, no further action is needed, a representative will call you from 800-869-3556.' Within a few minutes, I got a call from an individual stating they were with the Wells Fargo fraud department. The caller ID on my phone said Wells Fargo, and the person said they could reverse the transaction if I sign into my online account and open the Zelle app. I did this and the caller asked if I saw my name. I told him I saw my name in two places. It looked like I would be sending money to myself. The caller said everything was fine and the money would come back to my account. After the call ended, I got two texts stating funds for $2,500 and $1,000 would be deposited in my Wells Fargo account. I went back into my account and there was no evidence of any deposits. What I did see was $3,500 taken out of my account and a zero account balance."

How to avoid bank fraud scams

- Understand your bank's policies. Know that your bank will never ask you to send money to yourself. If someone tries to convince you otherwise, it's a scam.
 - Watch out for fake caller IDs. Scammers can spoof caller ID names and numbers to make you think you are receiving a call from a reputable source. If you weren't expecting to be contacted by your bank, it's best to avoid answering. Instead, call the number on the back of your ATM card to confirm that there is an issue.
 - Never share one-time passcodes. Scammers can use one-time passcodes from your bank or any other company to access your accounts and change information. Don't share them with anyone, no exceptions.
 - Contact your bank if you suspect a scam. If you receive an unsolicited call, text, or email that you suspect is a scam, contact your bank immediately and let them know.
 - Don't reply to suspicious texts. Ignore any instructions to reply yes or no if you receive an unsolicited, suspicious text message. If you reply to a scammer, they could save your number as "active" and target you with future scams.
- See the related BBB Scam Alert about phony banking texts and calls and review the BBB Tip on avoiding impostor scams.
- If you spot a scam, report it to BBB Scam Tracker. Your report can help others avoid falling victim to similar scams.
- Do you want more information about how to avoid getting scammed? Check out the Spot a Scam page and sign up to receive weekly scam alerts.

experience has well prepared her to take up the position.

"I thought I'd do a good job with the new city councilors that were coming in," Sandlin said. "I thought I could bring a lot to the board. I can step into the large shoes that Chris Johnson left and try to create my own path."

As council president she wants to focus on collaboration within the council. Her first plan is to speak with all of the council members in order to get their input on what they would like to see the council do this year.

She wants to ensure that every member has a voice and their opinions are heard.

"It's a collaborative effort of all 11 of us, the president is a presiding officer but I really want the input of all of the committee," Sandlin said.

Sandlin also plans to work closely with Mayor Christopher Johnson throughout her term as president. Agawam has several big projects ahead, particularly the high school project, and Sandlin wants the process to run as smoothly as possible.

Particularly important to Sandlin is communication, between council members, the council and the mayor, and the council and the citizens of Agawam.

"We have to make sure the people in Agawam and the voters know exactly what they're voting for and how it's going to affect them," Sandlin said.

Sandlin's fellow councilors were very supportive of her election to the position.

"Rosemary Sandlin is going to do a very, very good job as the council president," Russo said. "She's been involved in government for an extremely long time, she definitely has the experience, she has the knowledge, Agawam will be very lucky to have her up there and I look forward to learning from her."

Russo was the only person nominated for the vice president position, and so was elected unanimously. He was honored by the council's faith in his abilities.

"To know that my colleagues had the faith in me to feel that I could hit the ground running with that position and do a good job at it and give it justice, it felt very good," he said.

Russo made the decision to try for this position as he knew that Mercadante, the former vice president, would be running for president, thus leaving an opening.

He felt that with his experience and work ethic, he would be the right person for the job.

"I'm the kind of person that when I commit to something I try to give it my all and do all that I can to help move that forward," Russo said. "So I felt that in my position and my energy I would be able to give this a really good, strong attack at the job."

Russo also hopes to focus on continuing the cooperative environment the council has had over the past few years. He feels that this cooperation is key to getting work done in the town and ensuring that the government moves as efficiently as possible.

"We all worked very well together with the mayor, the council, the school committee," Russo said. "I want to do all I can to keep that working relationship going forward."

He hopes to help the new councilors get acclimated to their positions, and also looks forward to learning from them and their experiences.

"We all interact differently and we all bring something different to the table," he said.

Over the next year Russo, like Sandlin, hopes to make progress on the high school project. He also hopes to have a Charter review done for the town.

"Our Charter hasn't been visited in a very long time," he said. "We're pretty much operating on the same Charter as we were when we were a town manager government, so I'd like to see that get worked on."

He wants to ensure that he and his fellow councilors can do what is best for Agawam over the next two years. With many infrastructure projects and improvements on public safety in the works, Russo is ready to expand upon all the good Agawam has.

"Agawam is my home," Russo said. "And you're supposed to protect your home and do all that you can to make your home better."w

Worcester Railers fall to Maine Mariners on the road

PORTLAND, ME – The skate was on the other foot here Sunday afternoon, much to the Railers' dismay.

After spending a lot of the first part of this season crafting miraculous comebacks, Worcester had it happen in reverse, losing to the Maine Mariners, 4-2.

The Railers squandered a 2-1 lead as they allowed two goals by Alex Kile in the game's closing minutes, then an empty-netter by Curtis Hall at 19:59.

Kile's goals were his 19th and 20th of the season. The tying goal came with Maine on a power play at 17:09 of the third period. The winner was a 5 on 5 shot through a screen from about 55 feet at 19:33. It came after a Railers' mistake, an errant pass that led to an icing call and a faceoff in their own end.

Joey Cipollone and Anthony Callin scored the Worcester goals. Owen Pederson had the first Maine goal.

John Muse stopped 25 of 28 Maine shots. Brad Arvanitis was excellent for the Mariners with 34 saves.

Worcester had a chance to put things out of reach earlier in the third period but could not capitalize on more than three straight minutes of power play time, much of it skating 5 on 3.

The first period was a real trip for the Railers, but in the worst way.

Referee Michael Zyla did not call a penalty and missed a blatant trip that took down a Worcester player and it cost the Railers a goal. It happened at 11:12, or just before that, as Riley Piercey controlled the puck along the right wing boards in the Worcester zone.

As Piercey began to move out he was tripped. The puck wound up on Pederson's stick. He carried it into the slot and popped a high backhand past Muse.

Otherwise, Muse and Arvanitis were equal to the task to make 18 combined saves.

It took Worcester a while to tie the game but Cipollone finally did at 5:02 of the second period. He entered the Maine zone with Piercey on his right and one Maine defender between them. Cipollone took the puck in deep and his wrist shot broke through Arvanitis to make it 1-1.

Worcester made it 2-1 about seven minutes later on Callin's power play goal. He was set up by Blade Jenkins and zipped a 40-foot wrist shot just under the crossbar for the go ahead goal. The goal snapped an 11-game drought without one for Callin, although he had seven assists in that time.

Jenkins continued a very productive run of games with the assist. He is 2-9-11 in the last eight.

The Railers' next game is Friday night at the DCU Center, the first in a three-in-three versus the Norfolk Admirals. Worcester and Norfolk are likely to jockey for playoff position for the rest of the season and the Admirals have been leading the series to date, winning four of the five meetings.

Thunderbirds suffer loss against rival Bruins

PROVIDENCE, R.I. – The Springfield Thunderbirds (16-12-3-2) could not overcome an early blitz by the Providence Bruins (19-12-3-0) in a 6-3 loss on Sunday afternoon at Amica Mutual Pavilion.

It did not take the Bruins long to flex their offensive muscles, as John Farnacci slipped into an open area in front of the net, received a pass from Brett Harrison, and one-touched it past Vadim Zherenko to make it a 1-0 Bruins lead just 2:40 into the game.

Just 1:04 later, Justin Brazeau added to the advantage, taking a Georgii Merkulov pass and deking to the backhand past Zherenko on a point-blank opportunity. Anthony Richard added a third at 6:05, and before the T-Birds knew it, the home side had a 3-0 lead.

After a pair of matching minors put the game at 4-on-4 for the first time, the Bruins found another seam in the defense, as Frederic Brunet made a perfect diagonal pass to the right post, where Ian Mitchell guided it into the twine, ending a potent first period for the Bruins with the 4-0 goal at 17:05.

Malcolm Subban entered in relief of Zherenko to start the second period, but the Bruins were not done on the attack, as Jayson Megna beat Subban on an odd-man rush from the slot, and the lead ballooned to 5-0 at 6:27 of the frame.

Despite the mountain of a deficit, the T-Birds showed tremendous character as Zach Bolduc and Adam Gaudette each found the back of the net behind Michael DiPietro in just a 2:12 span to bring the margin down to 5-2 at the 13:52 mark of the period. Bolduc's fifth of the season broke a personal 11-game drought, and Gaudette scored for a third straight game, becoming the first AHL player to reach 20 goals this season.

The third period went 11 minutes with relatively minimal offensive chances for each team. Springfield would get another one as MacKenzie MacEachern roofed a shot from the right of the crease at 11:54 to cut the margin down to 5-3 off a slick set-up from Wyatt Kalynuk, but the comeback effort would not get any closer. Richard's second goal of the afternoon, a power play marker into an empty net, ended the scoring at the 17:54 mark of the third.

The T-Birds continued their four-game road swing on Wednesday night when they visited the Bridgeport Islanders.

HCC announces healthy cooking series for new year

If you've made a New Year's resolution to eat healthier in 2024, Holyoke Community College might have just what you need.

The college is running a series of noncredit cooking classes this spring focused on diabetes but geared toward anyone interested in learning how to prepare healthier, more nutritious meals.

Classes in the "Nutrition for Diabetes" series run either on Tuesday or Wednesday nights beginning Feb. 7. All classes are held at the HCC MGM Culinary Arts Institute, 164 Race St., and taught by Marissa Chiapperino, a registered dietician and instructor in HCC's Culinary Arts program.

"Certain foods can lower your risk of heart disease and diabetes or help to manage it," Chiapperino said. "Making healthy adjustments to your daily meal plan does not have to be hard or boring. Oftentimes, adding in sources of healthy fats, whole grains, and high fiber fruits and vegetables can boost flavor and decrease the risk of chronic disease."

Each three-hour, stand-alone class will focus on a different theme. The first hour will be an education session with Chiapperino, followed by a two-hour hands-on cooking activity after which participants can take home leftovers and recipes that align with the nutritional topic of the evening.

Wed., Feb. 7, 6-9 p.m.: "What is a carbohydrate?" (white bean egg shakshuka, breakfast casserole, overnight oats, vanilla bean pancakes, salmon toast)

Tues., March 5, 6-9 p.m.: "What is a protein?" (grilled skirt steak with chickpea salad, fideo, raspberry chicken, tahini-baked cod)

Wed., March 20, 6-9 p.m.: "What is a fat?" (smoothie bar, zucchini fritters, roasted chickpeas, cheesy egg souffles, Vietnamese spring rolls with peanut sauce)

Wed., April 17, 6-9 pm.: "How to read a food label" (grilled swordfish and pepper salad; chicken, lemon and olive bake; sweet potato berry muffins; easy breakfast salad; cheddar and herb savory overnight oats)

Tues., April 30, 6-9 p.m.: "What is a carbohydrate?" (desserts for diabetes:

chocolate date spread, oatmeal cookies, orange chamomile blondies, homemade popcorn four ways, caramelized spiced pears)

In addition, on Tues., April 2, from 6-9 p.m., Chiapperino will lead a similarly structured class on meal planning, "Building a balanced meal," featuring chilled avocado and cucumber mint soup, eggplant and lentil meatballs, chili-stuffed spaghetti squash, kale and fava bean salad, and grain-free granola.

"Making dietary changes can feel overwhelming," she said. "In this class, we will talk about how meal planning can make or break your ability to lead a more nourishing life with food. The concepts discussed will be suitable for those with many different health concerns and also those who just want to get more comfortable in the kitchen."

Chiapperino holds a bachelor of science degree in dietetics from the State University of New York at Oneonta and a masters of public health from the University of Massachusetts Amherst. She specialized in medical nutrition therapy for critical care and oncology at Westchester Medical Center in New York and was the first bariatric dietician at Holyoke Medical Center, where she helped build their nutrition program.

She is a past president of the Western Massachusetts Dietetic Association and currently serves as executive secretary.

Each session is $84. For more information, or to register for classes, please go to hcc.edu/healthy-cooking

Pew Research states that one in four Americans live with a disability that interferes with activities of daily living and a recent national survey reports 90% of Americans age 50 and over want to 'age in place'.

To compound the situation, demand in the family caregiving market is increasing as well. Currently, 53 million Americans serve as family caregivers and the number is growing.

CAREER Education

Come and see what great things are happening at St. Stanislaus

St. Stanislaus School in Chicopee is under the new leadership of Principal Katherine Rorrio, who fully appreciates the Franciscan values and long-standing traditions of the school. Mrs. Rorrio is a graduate of the school, was a teacher at the school for 20 years, and is now Principal.

This year the school's theme is "For it is in giving that we receive", an inspirational quote from St. Francis about the value of giving back. Students are focusing on a different Corporal Work of Mercy each month. Some of the Corporal Works of Mercy that have been covered are - Feeding the Hungry and Working for Peace. The most recent Work of Mercy was Shelter the Homeless. Students and families collected 100 blankets, 50 hats, coats, and many undergarments that were donated to a local homeless shelter to help those in the community. Service projects are done throughout the year to help teach students the value of giving back.

The school will be holding an Open House on Sunday, Jan. 21 from 11 a.m. - 1 p.m. (no appointment needed).

If you would like to schedule a private tour for another time, please call the school to schedule an appointment at (413) 592-5135.

St. Stanislaus School is a Roman Catholic, Franciscan, co-educational Pre-K through 8th grade school. Students are assisted in developing their potential spiritually, physically, and socially within a safe and diverse community. A foundation of academic excellence is created to prepare students to become contributing members of a global society. The school has a welcoming Franciscan environment, modern air-conditioned facility, strong core curriculum, enrichment classes, certified faculty, full-day preschool (PreK3 and 4) and Kindergarten, free breakfast and hot lunch, before & after school program, and one to one use and integration of iPads and Chromebooks into curriculum.
