four-minute power play in the closing seconds of the first. Despite all that time on the advantage, though, Hofer and the Springfield penalty kill stood their ground to begin the second, improving to 8-for-8 to begin their home ice PK work in the postseason.

The second period saw scarce chances for the first half of play, but that would change after an Alexander True penalty gave Springfield a man advantage at 14:19. On that power play, Dakota Joshua jammed a puck into the paint, with multiple T-Birds desperately trying to push it across the goal line. Somewhere in the traffic, a Checkers defender closed his glove on the puck, resulting in an automatic penalty shot for Springfield.

Sam Anas, who entered with an incredible 17-for-33 shootout success rate in his regular-season AHL career, made no mistakes, deking Daccord down to the ice and elevating a forehand over the fallen keeper to make it a 2-0 score with 4:39 left in the second.

Springfield grabbed the game by the collar in the final period, as Anas sneaked a rising wrister through Daccord on the short side just 57 seconds into the final period to elevate the lead to 3-0. It was Anas' fourth goal and ninth point already in the postseason.

The T-Birds were far from finished. First, MacKenzie MacEachern stuffed a wraparound through Daccord's legs at 3:06 to make it a 4-0 game on his third tally of the postseason. That chased the Checkers' starting goalie from the contest. Christopher Gibson entered, but the results did not change. Kostin redeemed himself with a turnaround rocket at 3:34 to make it 5-0.

Leading Nate Wenzel by less than six inches on lap one, the Hatfield, Mass. rocketman led potent Ben Byrne under the checkers to notch his career-best third win in a row. Byrne and Wenzel followed him under the checkers to complete Saturday's Bay State top three.

Only one quick caution slowed Kyle Robinson Newell's trip to victory lane in the Pure Stock feature. Teen star JD Stockwell kept him in sight all 25 laps but, on this night, had to settle for second. Defending track champ Chris Davis was strong in third, with 60-something Bruce Jaycox, hauling all the way from Clarksville, coming home strong in fourth.

Zach Zilinski led all the way in the Young Gun feature, scoring his second win of the summer just ahead of Dominick Stafford. Colton Martin, victorious a week earlier, came home third.

Like the Young Guns, the Six Shooters ran caution-free. Joe Fraser held the point from green to checkers, with John Voorhees second under the checkers and four-time Claremont winner Steve Miller Sr. third on the night.
