of months.”

FC Buffalo (7-1-2), who finished the regular season tied with the Rochester Lancers for first place in the Penn NY Division standings, advanced into the playoffs due to a tie-breaker.

The last time that the Mutiny qualified for the UWS playoffs was in 2019.

The only three remaining Mutiny players from that team are Melina Couzis, Meghan Cunningham, and Agawam’s Hope Santaniello. The trio took a picture together following last Friday’s match.

“I thought we had a very talented team this year,” said Cunningham, who graduated from UConn ten years ago. “We came back to tie tonight’s game, but they scored the game winning goal in the final minute.”

Santaniello, who scored five goals this season, will be a sophomore on the U.R.I. women’s soccer team this fall.

Cat Berry scored a team leading eight goals in only a couple of matches before having to return to the University of South Carolina for summer classes and training.

Linnehan is planning to attend the Gamecocks non-league soccer match at UConn in August.

Monson resident Laura Gouvin also left the Mutiny a little bit early to begin an internship with a baseball team in the prestigious Cape Cod League.

Two of the Mutiny reserve players for the playoff match were Lily Fabian (Monson), who played the entire second half, and back-up goalie Julia Robak (Chicopee).

Another local player listed on the Mutiny roster is Alexis Legowski, who lives in South Hadley. She missed most of the regular season because of an internship in Boston. Legowski is entering her senior year at Northeastern University. She gave the Mutiny faithful supporters something to cheer about late in the second half.

FC Buffalo, who made the long trek from Western New York on gameday, took a 1-0 in the 39th minute following a goal by Carissima Cutrona.

A couple of minutes later, Mutiny starting goalie Bella Mendoza, who attends UMass-Amherst, made an outstanding diving save on a breakaway opportunity by Ella Rudney keeping the score 1-0.

The visiting squad managed to hold onto the lead until the 82nd minute.

That’s when the Mutiny managed to tie the score at 1-1 following a free kick.

The kick was taken by Anna Carson from outside of the box on the right side and Legowski headed it into the left corner of the net.

“I was feeling great after we scored the tying goal on the free kick,” Linnehan said. “We felt like that we had the momentum and we decided not to change anything. Then unfortunately they scored the winning goal.

The Mutiny had a couple of scoring chances before Djeynaba Thiam, who entered the match for Buffalo during the 77th minute, scored what turned out to be the game winning goal in stoppage time.

Even though the Mutiny season has come to an end, they’ll be plenty of exciting action at Lusitano Stadium this weekend.

All-Star Ryan Ignoffo (Upper Valley, 3B, Eastern Illinois), who was crowned champion of the 2022 NECBL Home Run Derby just hours before first pitch, wasted no time. The third baseman smacked a double off the left field fence, bringing in Dan Covino (Keene, SS, Central Connecticut St) to score the first run of the game.

The South responded in the bottom of the first. Michael Snyder (Martha’s Vineyard, 3B, Washington) stroked an RBI single into the outfield to score Peter Ciuffreda (Ocean State, OF, Lafayette) and tie the game at one.

It was all the Southern All-Stars from there. The South put three on the board in the second to extend their lead to 4-1. Bramley’s solo shot and singles from Ciuffreda and Colton Ledbetter (Newport, OF, Mississippi St) brought home all three runs. The home team tacked on another in the bottom of the third when Bramley hit his second home run.

The rest of the games’ scoring came in the fourth inning. The North got one back off an Evan Fox (Vermont, OF, Stony Brook) RBI groundout, but the South didn’t bat an eye. The home team rattled off eight consecutive runs in the bottom of the inning.

Ledbetter accounted for half of the runs scored, crushing a three-run bomb and hitting an RBI single. A Noah Martinez (Newport, 1B, Central Connecticut St) double and singles by Chase Meggers (Ocean St, C, Oregon), Chaz Myers (Bristol, SS, Pacific) and Danny Crossen (Martha’s Vineyard, 2B, Northeastern) scored the other four runs. The South had nine hits and brought fourteen batters to the plate in the inning. The Southern All-Stars held a 13-2 lead after the fourth, which stood the rest of the game.

Southern outfielder Ledbetter led all players with four hits and five RBIs. Peter Ciuffreda and Thomas Bramley were the only other two South players to have a multi-hit evening. The Northern All-Stars were stifled at the plate. Ten different Southern pitchers gave up a total of just five hits, walked four and struck out eleven. North relief pitcher Matt McShane (Upper Valley, RHP, St Josephs) was the only pitcher to strike out the side during his one inning.

throughout the region, with team mascot Boomer making more than 125 visits during the season to a wide variety of community and charitable events. Perhaps no one program was more prevalent than the team’s Stick to Reading initiative, which featured a franchise-record 24 participating schools.

The awards did not stop with the Team of the Year for the Thunderbirds, as general manager Kevin McDonald was named the recipient of the Thomas Ebricht Memorial Award for outstanding career contributions in the AHL over his three decades in professional hockey. McDonald joined the St. Louis Blues organization in 2001 and has overseen the Blues’ AHL affiliates for the last 17 seasons.

Highly regarded for his professionalism and tireless dedication, McDonald quickly forged a strong partnership with the Blues’ new affiliate, the Springfield Thunderbirds. He worked through a challenging 2021-22 season – one impacted again by the effects of the COVID-19 pandemic – to ice one of the most successful teams in the long history of AHL hockey in Springfield. There is perhaps no greater testament to McDonald’s impact this season than the fact that players who suited up for the Thunderbirds skated in a combined total of 249 NHL games with the St. Louis Blues during the 2021-22 campaign.

“Kevin has been one of the most highly respected executives in the AHL throughout his career, and we could not be happier to see his hard work recognized league-wide,” said Costa. “He is the ultimate professional, an outstanding evaluator of on-ice talent, and an even better person. We join the rest of his peers in congratulating him on a much-deserved honor.”
