Reidy leads QCB for 2022 season

B A R R E — Quabbin Community Band Director, Peter Lewis, is taking a sabbatical and Margaret E. Reidy will conduct the band this summer.

Margaret E. Reidy

Reidy has been around QCB for 45 years or so and has strong attachments to the band. Lucy Colwell of West Brookfield will also be doing some guest conducting.

Reidy is recently retired as the director of bands and orchestras at Minnechaug Regional High School in Wilbraham, where for 30 years she directed a program of more than 200 students involved in the areas of concert band, symphonic band, wind ensemble, string ensemble, jazz band, and marching band.

Her ensembles received many accolades over the years including winning the "Dixie Classic Invitational" in Virginia (wind ensemble), gold medals at the Great East Music Festival (jazz band and string ensemble) and first place in the Holyoke St. Patrick's Day Parade (marching band and color guard).

In addition to her high school teaching, Reidy worked for and became the director of the United States Youth Ensembles European Concert Tour from 1987-2008.

Working with a wide range of guest conductors, her select groups (band, strings, and chorale) composed of all-state students from across the United States embarked upon a performance tour of six countries in western Europe over a three-week period each summer.

Reidy served the Massachusetts Music Educators Association beginning in 1991 as a district ensemble manager, state ensemble manager, and MMEA board member as both high school representative and Band Council chair. She has been a guest conductor for various ensembles, working with a wide range of groups of many different ages.

In the area of curriculum, Reidy represented state and national music organizations when asked to write the musical component for the published lesson plans attached to the widely acclaimed PBS film project, "Martin Scorsese presents: The Blues."

Recognized by colleagues and institutions alike over the course of her career, Margaret was named "Teacher of the Year" at her high school and received the Lowell Mason Award at the Massachusetts All-State Conference.

She was named as a Grinspoon Award winner receiving the Pioneer Valley Distinguished Teacher Award for her positive impact on children in her community, and also enjoyed being honored by the Boston Red Sox in conjunction with the Massachusetts Teachers Association at Fenway Park before a Red Sox game as a "MVT: Most Valuable Teacher."

In 2019 Reidy received the state's highest honor at the annual MMEA conference when presented with the Distinguished Service Award, annually given to one recipient (teaching grade K-college) for their service to and impact on music education in the state of Massachusetts.

Since retiring from full time teaching Reidy continues to engage in guest conducting stints, has improved her golf game, and is enjoying "do-it-yourself" home improvement projects. She lives with her wife Cynthia in Palmer, where they have resided for the past 35 years.

Fourteen graduate to the veterinary technology profession

G A R D N E R — Mount Wachusett Community College welcomed fourteen students to the veterinary technology profession on May 11 in a traditional pinning ceremony.

Jillian Barnes of Ware was one of the newest graduates from the program.

The group of students, some of whom started their program at the former Becker College, were welcomed by Dean Veronica Guay, Program Director Tara Novak, and President James Vander Hooven.

"I am so thrilled for all of you," Vander Hooven began, "I am struck by the deep-down desire and commitment you all have, overcoming challenges in a program that is difficult, not allowing any obstacles to get in your way. Congratulations to you all."

Keynote speaker, Elizabeth Schlupf, DVM offered students words of wisdom as they begin their careers.

"There will be amazing highs, embrace them, hold them close to you and treasure them, they are gifts not to be taken lightly. There will be horrible lows, these are also gifts of the universe, they are here to lead us to greater understanding, a promise of never again, and a reminder that we are not perfect," Schlupf told the students. "I implore you, as you move forward, to keep your own health in mind. Embrace life and explore the other parts of who you are, it will make you a better vet tech and a happier person."

The students were pinned by a family member, friend or faculty, and then recited the Veterinary Technician Oath as the newest members veterinary field.
