Kayla Comiskey participates in Lasell University RUNWAY shows

NEWTON – Kayla Comiskey, a Lasell University student from Chicopee, participated in the institution’s annual RUNWAY shows last month.

Comiskey was a designer who presented original work at the RUNWAY undergraduate show.

The annual fashion shows featured work from 89 student designers and more than 150 models and production staff members. An undergraduate show on Friday, April 28, showcased work across 11 categories, including sweater knits, corsetry, athleisure, and non-textiles. On Saturday, senior designers presented full collections.

Fashion merchandising and management students Jacqueline Minasian ‘23 and Catherine King ‘23 co-directed the shows, while Noelle Engrassia ‘23 served as production assistant. With guidance from Kristin Kinsky, assistant professor of fashion and RUNWAY faculty director, the student leaders managed the entire process: sourcing, training, and coordinating models; managing production staff; coordinating backstage and front-of-house needs; overseeing promotions and media; and working with designers to make their visions a reality.

The senior class show on Saturday, April 29, highlighted collections from 22 fashion design and production students from the fashion design and production Class of 2023. Each collection included seven looks developed over the course of the year with accompanying music and video content to convey the designer’s vision.

The RUNWAY shows closed out Lasell’s end-of-year academic festivities, including the Connected Learning Symposium on Thursday, April 27.

SNHU announces Winter 2023 President’s List

MANCHESTER, NH – It is with great pleasure that Southern New Hampshire University congratulates the following local students on being named to the Winter 2023 President’s List: Kayla Bresnahan and Mohamad Kariem Allam of Chicopee.

The winter terms run from January to May.

Full-time undergraduate students who have earned a minimum grade-point average of 3.700 and above for the reporting term are named to the President’s List. Full-time status is achieved by earning 12 credits over each 16-week term or paired 8-week terms grouped in fall, winter/spring, and summer.

pared them for an innovative world, joking he used ChatGPT to write his speech.

“In a world in which many functions can be performed by computers and artificial intelligence, your Elms College education provides you some competitive advantages,” Durnay said. “In addition to the degree that you are obtaining today, we at Elms College believe that your competitive edge is that you are prepared to be ethical individuals and moral agents. It is that, which will set you apart as Elms College graduates.”

Tabron addressed the students as leaders, explaining they chose a life of impact and service and that “great leaders are committed.”

“I know many of you are already planning on careers of service. Some of you are still deciding what is next. But whether your job is in a hospital or a school, marketing or medicine, you can find a way to serve as a pocket of hope for your community,” Tabron said. “You don’t have to be a college president or a foundation CEO. You can lead in many ways – however you choose to serve. It’s not as complicated as we make it out to be. It just takes love, support and commitment.”

Kimberly Quinonez, a South Carolina native, said graduating with a social work degree means everything.

“I think it speaks volumes not just in my life, but in others’ lives. I’ve lived a very challenging life. I’ve had some battles, some struggles and challenges, but it never defined who I am as a person,” Quinonez said. “I’ve persevered and I believe getting this degree today will allow me the opportunity to advocate and be there for others who have maybe the same challenges I have overcome.”

Quinonez got accepted to Springfield College and plans to start classes soon. She currently works at the Hampden County Sheriff’s Department.

Quinonez had this message for her fellow graduates.

“One, we did it, and two, we became such an amazing family. There was no way we weren’t going to be successful. So we have to keep supporting, encouraging, uplifting and being there for one another,” Quinonez said.

Quinonez encouraged graduates to “be there for those that are coming behind us” and give them support.

“Show them the same love we’ve shown one another,” Quinonez said.

Quinonez wants the community to prepare for the graduates.

“Just know that we mean business. We’re coming for change. We’re coming to change, we’re coming to advocate, we’re coming to help those who are sick,” Quinonez said. “We’re just coming to bring change.”

Reflecting on overcoming adversity, Quinonez emphasized the power of perseverance, faith and recognizing potential.

“I am standing here today because someone’s seen my potential when someone else didn’t see it. I didn’t see my potential, but others did and they would not let me give up, and so today I’m grateful,” Quinonez said.

college in those colleges is much easier than getting in. Presently, this reporter is researching each of the Community Colleges that largely served the western part of Massachusetts beginning with Mount Wachusett and Greenfield Community Colleges. So far, some nice surprises, but some are facing challenges. Each week there will be a profile of the colleges.

With college costs being so high, does it make financial sense to go to a Community College for two years and then transfer to as a junior to a four-year college? As is the case to many scenarios...it depends. Those will be explored and explained.

If the reader has personal experience with a Community College, as a student or parent in Massachusetts or elsewhere, they may email Eric Goodhart at barrenews@turley.com.
