which always made sure she and Cody had everything they needed during the 10-day stay.

Above all, their professionalism helped Liz and Cody power through.

"Looking back on it, the stuff that happened to Jack is super scary... There was one point when we were in the hospital where we looked at each other and we honestly thought he might die. It's hard to say that and think that, but it was our reality at the time," Liz said. "He could have not survived it, but when they came in whenever his oxygen dropped or whatever, they were never panicked, which I think really set us at ease too. They were like, 'Just another day. Everything's going to be fine.'"

Cody described the PICU medical staff as "the best," noting that they were always right there when anything happened.

"(Jack) was hooked up to a whole bunch of different (machines) so any little thing would set off an alarm and boom, there they were, running in and making sure we were okay and making sure we had everything we needed along with Jack," Cody said.

Liz described Jack as a fighter, but the fight isn't over yet. She said that, based on her research, children who suffer from the virus could experience autism, learning disabilities, vision problems, long-term seizures or cerebral palsy.

Luckily, Jack has yet to experience any symptoms.

"You're always wondering when the shoe's going to drop, like when he's going to start showing signs and symptoms of something, but so far nothing, which is incredible," Liz said. "He's definitely a miracle."

Cody said Jack is improving every day. He said the family feels very fortunate that everything played out the way it did on account of the unknowns that are associated with the virus.

"There wasn't very much information on it so it's very scary not knowing what the outcome would be and still after the fact not knowing what long-term effects could happen," Cody said. "He's definitely a fighter and definitely continues to make us proud with his improvements every day, showing how strong he really was against all odds."

Liz and Cody look forward to one day telling Jack about his experience in the PICU and how the medical professionals came to his aid. Their gratitude inspired them to hold the Jan. 28 fundraiser for Baystate at the Country Club.

Cody described Jack's first birthday party as amazing and voiced appreciation for everyone who participated.

"Given everything that he's been through at such an early age, now being able to celebrate his first birthday is just definitely surreal. It was definitely a great turnout; better than what we expected."

Now, Liz and Cody count their blessings daily, as they're thankful for every moment with their baby Jack. Both parents hope Jack's story can inspire whoever is fortunate enough to hear it.

"This has brought us all together and made us realize life is so precious and just to take a minute to slow down and just realize that and enjoy each other's company. It's been quite the experience for all of us. A positive one; it's been wonderful," Liz said.

Liz and Cody will continue to collect donations for Jack until March 5, when they participate in the Radiothon for Baystate Children's Hospital through 94.7 WMAS.
