to sponsor events and more.

4-H clubs are for kids between five and eighteen years old and work to teach the basic of home economics, which is what it was originally created for. Since then, it has expanded into clubs that do robotics, babysitting certifications, and more.

The wreath sales were priced according to what kinds of decorations the people wanted for their wreaths.

The people who came to the wreath sale bought all 180 wreaths from the troop and the club, selling out entirely in just five hours.

“The support of the community means a lot,” said Janet Theroux. “It always amazes me how people come in and buy the wreaths every year, and we always sell out.”

The immediate support of the community for the troop and the 4-H clubs are greatly appreciated, and they look forward to the new year for new opportunities and fun.

“(It’s) the joy in people’s faces when they see a beautiful wreath,” said Thibault. “I grew up in this town and am so happy to continue to see new 4-H-ers taking an interest in all the clubs we have to offer. The community comes out to support us at every event, from this to Trunk or Treat, the 4-H fair tent, we are so grateful.”
